

ENGLISH, PHD

The Department of English offers a PhD in English (with specializations in Composition and Rhetoric, English Language and Linguistics, or Literary Studies).

Literary Studies Pathway (MA + PhD): Students enrolled in the literary studies PhD specialization become eligible for an MA English degree in the literary studies area when they successfully complete the first-stage doctoral requirements. The literary studies specialization does not offer an MA apart from the doctoral program. The literary studies track offers a rigorous course of study leading to the completion of a doctoral dissertation in any field of English, American, or Anglophone literature and culture, or in any field of literary theory and criticism. The program prepares students for active careers in higher education among other potential fields and combines a sharp focus on conceptual approaches to literary and cultural works with a commitment to broad coverage of the field of Anglophone literature. Graduate seminars taken during the first phases of the doctoral program serve to prepare students to develop research projects for the dissertation. As they progress toward the PhD, students are invited to consider interdisciplinary subspecialties: literary theory and criticism, visual studies, ecocriticism and environmentalism, transnational and global literature, material culture, print culture and book history, digital humanities, disability studies, gender studies, race and ethnic studies, feminist theory, LGBTQ literature and queer theory, postcolonial studies. The program provides opportunities for teaching writing and literature and for administrative experience.

Composition and Rhetoric Pathway (PhD): Students enrolled in the composition and rhetoric PhD specialization must have earned a master's degree prior to matriculation in our doctoral program. The composition and rhetoric track offers a vibrant intellectual community of scholar-teachers and supports research in a wide array of subfields, including literacy studies, composition theory & pedagogy, rhetorical studies, and writing centers/writing program administration. Faculty expertise in literacy, composition, and rhetoric includes emphases in migration, race and ethnicity, critical theory, historical and ethnographic methods, space and place, environmental rhetoric, science writing, visual rhetoric, and transnationalism. This multidisciplinary program with a low faculty-to-student ratio offers doctoral students close contact with faculty mentors throughout coursework and dissertation research. It also maintains close collaborations with campus programs in Communication Arts, Language Sciences, and Curriculum and Instruction, among others. The program offers varied opportunities for professional development in teaching, research, and writing program administration, and is recognized for its commitment to training well-rounded professionals in the field of composition and rhetoric.

English Language and Linguistics Pathway (MA+ PhD): The English language and linguistics area is intended for students with a solid foundation in the English language, applied linguistics, and related fields. Students enrolled in the English language and linguistics PhD specialization become eligible for an MA English degree when they successfully complete the first-stage doctoral requirements. The English language and linguistics specialization does not offer an MA apart from the doctoral program. Through program of course work and seminars, English language and linguistics doctoral students attain advanced knowledge in the core areas of English syntax and phonology and in the applied areas of second language acquisition, discourse analysis, and language variation and change. On reaching the dissertation stage, students pursue individual research in close cooperation with their faculty advisor. In recent years, students have written dissertations on code-switching, critical pedagogy, interactional competence, and conversation analysis, syntactic problems in second language acquisition, classroom discourse, and psycholinguistics. Graduates of the program have taken faculty positions at universities throughout the country.

If you are interested in applying to the Bridge Program in African American Studies to earn an MA and then move into the English PhD with an emphasis in Composition & Rhetoric or Literary Studies please see detailed information, Department of African American Studies (<https://africanamericanstudies.wisc.edu/graduate-degree/>)

Letters of Recommendation Required	3

The Department of English offers a PhD in English. Applicants choose one program pathway of study (Composition and Rhetoric, English Language and Linguistics, or Literary Studies). Applicants applying to the Composition and Rhetoric program must already hold an MA degree.

The department also welcomes applications from well prepared applicants who do not have the equivalent of an English major. Such applicants may be asked to supplement the program of study by completing a small number of coverage courses.

LITERARY STUDIES PATHWAY (MA+PHD)

Applicants must demonstrate competence in one or more fields of literature in English and may have a bachelor's or master's degree from an accredited institution. Applicants who already hold an MA from another institution or program are expected to earn the MA degree in our Literary Studies program as well.

COMPOSITION & RHETORIC PATHWAY (PHD)

Applicants may have bachelor's and master's degree from a variety of fields beyond English but must complete a master's degree or equivalent before beginning our Composition & Rhetoric doctoral program.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE & LINGUISTICS PATHWAY (MA+PHD)

Applicants must demonstrate competence in applied linguistics, linguistics or a related field and must have a bachelor's or master's degree from an accredited institution. In addition, entrance into the program presumes courses in the history of English and English dialects and courses in English syntax and English phonology. Applicants who already hold an MA degree from another institution or program are expected to earn the MA degree in our program as well.

FUNDING

GRADUATE SCHOOL RESOURCES

Resources to help you afford graduate study might include assistantships, fellowships, traineeships, and financial aid. Further funding information (<https://grad.wisc.edu/funding/>) is available from the Graduate School. Be sure to check with your program for individual policies and restrictions related to funding.

PROGRAM RESOURCES

Prospective students should see the program website (<https://english.wisc.edu/graduate-program/prospective-students/funding/>) for funding information.

REQUIREMENTS

MINIMUM GRADUATE SCHOOL REQUIREMENTS

Review the Graduate School minimum academic progress and degree requirements (<http://guide.wisc.edu/graduate/#policiesandrequirements>), in addition to the program requirements listed below.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS

MODE OF INSTRUCTION

Face to Face	Evening/ Weekend	Online	Hybrid	Accelerated
Yes	No	No	No	No

Mode of Instruction Definitions

Accelerated: Accelerated programs are offered at a fast pace that condenses the time to completion. Students typically take enough credits aimed at completing the program in a year or two.

Evening/Weekend: Courses meet on the UW–Madison campus only in evenings and/or on weekends to accommodate typical business schedules. Students have the advantages of face-to-face courses with the flexibility to keep work and other life commitments.

Face-to-Face: Courses typically meet during weekdays on the UW–Madison Campus.

Hybrid: These programs combine face-to-face and online learning formats. Contact the program for more specific information.

Online: These programs are offered 100% online. Some programs may require an on-campus orientation or residency experience, but the courses will be facilitated in an online format.

CURRICULAR REQUIREMENTS

Refer to the Graduate School: Breadth Requirement in Doctoral Training policy: <https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1200> (<https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1200/>).

Students are required to consult with their program faculty advisor.

REQUIRED COURSES

Each pathway has specific course requirements. Graduate seminar offerings in English reflect the faculty's current areas of research and therefore change importantly from year to year. Please consult the department website for more detailed information.

Composition and Rhetoric Pathway <sup>1</sup>

Coursework is designed to offer you a balanced background in rhetoric, composition, and literacy studies. All courses are chosen in consultation with the program's faculty advisor. Courses from outside the below course lists may apply with faculty advisor approval.

Code	Title	Credits
Composition Rhetoric Requirement		18

Students must complete 18 credits. Typically, one rhetoric-focused course and one composition/literacy focused course are available each semester.

ENGL 700	Introduction to Composition Studies
ENGL 701	Writing and Learning
ENGL 702	Perspectives on Literacy
ENGL 703	Research Methods in Composition Studies
ENGL/ COM ARTS 704	Intellectual Sources of Contemporary Composition Theory I-Classical

ENGL 706	Special Topics in Composition Theory
ENGL 722	Composition and Critical Theories

Code	Title	Credits
Research Methods/Tools Requirement		6

Students must complete 6 credits. This requirement is fulfilled by taking two courses that focus explicitly on the problems and practice of research. An array of qualitative and quantitative research methods courses offered in other programs and departments also can fulfill this requirement. ENGL 701 and ENGL 703 may satisfy the Research Methods / Tools requirement but may not double-count towards the Comprehension Rhetoric requirement.

ENGL 701	Writing and Learning
ENGL 703	Research Methods in Composition Studies
ENGL 799	Independent Reading

Code	Title	Credits
Breadth		9-12

Courses are chosen by the student and the minor or graduate/professional certificate advisor in consultation with the student's program advisor. This requirement is completed prior to obtaining dissertator status.

Independent Study and Electives		3-15
--	--	-------------

To meet the minimum credit requirement, students complete additional coursework, including independent study and/or language or dissertator research credits.

ENGL 999 (Optional) <sup>2</sup>

Dissertator Research

Students with dissertator status enroll in 3 credits of the following course every term to complete the degree.

ENGL 990	Dissertation Research in English
Total Credits		51

<sup>1</sup> These pathways are internal to the program and represent different curricular paths a student can follow to earn this degree. Pathway names do not appear in the Graduate School admissions application, and they will not appear on the transcript.

<sup>2</sup> ENGL 999 may be taken for the first time in the semester in which students are completing the English Course Requirements or have completed the coursework requirements.

English Language and Linguistics Pathway <sup>1</sup>

Students must complete the requirements for the English MA (<https://guide.wisc.edu/graduate/english/english-ma/#requirements-text>) for this pathway. All courses are chosen in consultation with the program's faculty advisor. Courses outside of the below course lists may apply with faculty advisor approval.

Code	Title	Credits
MA degree en route to the PhD degree

Students must complete the requirements for the English MA, English Language and Linguistics pathway. Students complete 10 courses and one language competency. These requirements must be completed, meeting satisfactory academic progress, before the beginning of the fifth semester.

Additional Program Requirements

All students must complete the following requirements:

Preliminary Exam and Dissertator Status

Successful completion of all major and breadth coursework allows students to take the preliminary exam. In preparation for preliminary exams, students may enroll in ENGL 999 in the semester in which they complete the English course requirements. Students who pass the exam obtain dissertator status, effective the following term. All students with dissertator status will enroll in exactly three credits of ENGL 990 Dissertation Research in English every required term (spring/fall) to degree completion; three credits is considered full time enrollment.

Dissertation Proposal Conference

Within six months after passing the prelim exam, each student must hold a Dissertation Proposal Conference. This consists of a meeting with the English Department faculty member who has agreed to direct their dissertation and two other faculty members who have agreed to serve on the dissertation committee. An approved dissertation proposal should follow as soon as possible, normally no later than a month after the conference.

Final Defense

A doctoral candidate writes a dissertation, with faculty guidance, representing original scholarly work of a high order and defends the dissertation.

Coursework earned ten or more years prior to admission to a doctoral degree is not allowed to satisfy requirements.

*Note that students may request to transfer up to 6 credits of prior-coursework in total.

PROBATION

Refer to the Graduate School: Probation (<https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1217/>) policy.

ADVISOR / COMMITTEE

Refer to the Graduate School: Advisor (<https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1232/>) and Graduate School: Committees (Doctoral/Master's/MFA) (<https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1201/>) policies.

CREDITS PER TERM ALLOWED

Students in the English Department's PhD program are expected to enroll full time.

Students with a fellowship, holding a university appointment % or holding dissertator status may have different credit-loads which equate to full time student status.

Please see the Graduate School's policy (<https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1208/>) for full time enrollment credit requirements.
