MASTER'S PROGRAMS IN ACCOUNTING

The Master of Accountancy in Business: Accounting (MAcc) degree helps students develop strong technical and professional accounting skills that qualify them to sit for the CPA exam. Careers as professional accountants in public accounting, financial institutions, government, industry, or nonprofit organizations are possible upon graduation. For additional information see the program website (https://business.wisc.edu/graduate/masters/accountancy/).

This program is open to any student who has earned a four-year undergraduate degree, in any discipline, from an accredited institution.

Most students pursuing this program will complete a relevant internship in public or corporate accounting. No prior professional work experience is required for admission to the program.

In addition to building strong technical and analytical skills, this program will focus on overall professional development. Students will gain experience in public speaking and further develop skills in critical thinking, analysis, research, and writing.

All students are required to engage in an ethics and professionalism program aimed at preparing students to enter a profession where strong ethical standards are paramount.
