The Department of English offers a PhD in English. Applicants choose one program pathway of study (Composition and Rhetoric, English Language and Linguistics, or Literary Studies). Applicants applying to the Composition and Rhetoric program must already hold an MA degree.

The department also welcomes applications from well prepared applicants who do not have the equivalent of an English major. Such applicants may be asked to supplement the program of study by completing a small number of coverage courses.

LITERARY STUDIES PATHWAY (MA+PHD)

Applicants must demonstrate competence in one or more fields of literature in English and may have a bachelor's or master's degree from an accredited institution. Applicants who already hold an MA from another institution or program are expected to earn the MA degree in our Literary Studies program as well.

COMPOSITION & RHETORIC PATHWAY (PHD)

Applicants may have bachelor's and master's degree from a variety of fields beyond English but must complete a master's degree or equivalent before beginning our Composition & Rhetoric doctoral program.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE & LINGUISTICS PATHWAY (MA+PHD)

Applicants must demonstrate competence in applied linguistics, linguistics or a related field and must have a bachelor's or master's degree from an accredited institution. Applicants who already hold an MA degree from another institution or program are expected to earn the MA degree in our program as well.
