The Master of International Public Affairs (MIPA) Program provides education in public policy and global governance that prepares students from the United States and around the world to work in government, in businesses engaged with the global economy, for non-governmental organizations, or with consulting firms analyzing international policies.

The award-winning La Follette School faculty includes economists, political scientists, sociologists, and public affairs scholars who teach the skills and tools needed for a career in public affairs. They are experts in social policy, health policy and management, public administration, public policy analysis, environmental policy, poverty, and tax policy and government finance.

Beyond campus, the city of Madison, as the state capital, provides a wealth of opportunities for La Follette School students to participate in outreach and acquire practical experience as professional project assistants or interns with public and private entities. Students benefit from the strong relationships that La Follette School faculty have with these organizations, in keeping with the Wisconsin Idea of public service. This includes the Wisconsin Family Impact Seminar and Campus Connect—opportunities that use evidence-based research to inform policymakers and improve public policy.

INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC AFFAIRS DOUBLE DEGREES, DUAL DEGREES, AND CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

Some students earn additional credentials while they work toward their public affairs degrees. Students must follow double degree (https://grad.wisc.edu/acadpolicy/?policy=doubledegrees) and dual degree (https://grad.wisc.edu/acadpolicy/?policy=dualdegreegradprof) policies. The following combined degree and certificate programs are available, though students choose to embark on double degrees and graduate certificates beyond those listed below:

- Law (Juris Doctorate)
- Master of Public Health
- Master of Science in Urban and Regional Planning
- Doctorate in Neuroscience
- Energy Analysis and Policy Certificate through the Nelson Institute in Environmental Studies
- Business, Environment, & Social Responsibility; Entrepreneurship; or Strategic Innovation offered through the School of Business.
- Area studies program certificates

Law and International Public Affairs (MIPA/J.D.)

Increasingly, careers in the federal, state, and local governments, as well as nonprofit organizations and private sector businesses require an understanding of public administration, policy analysis, and public affairs, as well as law. Many students choose to pursue the dual law and public affairs degree because of their interest in employment in government agencies, government relations law practice, or in other policy-oriented firms and organizations.

For most students the dual degree program will add about a year of study to the three years it takes to complete law school, but will save approximately one year of study compared to doing the two programs separately. Students earn a Master of International Public Affairs degree and a Juris Doctor. It is recommended that students apply to both programs at the same time.

Public Health and International Public Affairs (MIPA/MPH)

The La Follette School and the School of Medicine and Public Health offer education in public health policy, policy analysis, and global governance to address critical health and health policy issues in the United States and throughout the world.

The dual degree program generally takes three years to complete, including summers. Students earn a Master of International Public Affairs degree and a Master of Public Health degree.

Neuroscience and International Public Affairs (MIPA/PH.D.)

Advances in neuroscience have important policy implications for child welfare and education, community development, mental health and health care, bioethics and aging, environmental risks, and national security. The Neuroscience and Public Policy Program (NPP) courses prepare students to work in the growing array of domestic or international policy jobs involved in the management of science and its integration into policy analysis and design. Students become good scientists and effective communicators, managers, and advocates of good public policy.

This combined degree program typically takes five years to complete, including summers. Students earn a Master of International Public Affairs degree and a Doctor of Philosophy in Neuroscience. Degree requirements are completed in the first three years. The focus of the fourth year is on research and thesis development, as well as completion of the Ph.D. Preliminary Exam. Students continue doing research and defend their thesis in the fifth year.

Urban and Regional Planning and International Public Affairs (MIPA/M.S. in URPL)

The La Follette School and the Department of Planning and Landscape Architecture offer education in planning, policymaking, and public affairs to address domestic and global environmental, housing, and transportation policy issues. This double degree takes three years to complete, including summers. Students earn a Master of International Public Affairs degree and a Master of Science in Urban and Regional Planning.

ADMISSIONS

Please consult the table below for key information about this degree program’s admissions requirements. The program may have more detailed admissions requirements, which can be found below the table or on the program’s website.

Graduate admissions is a two-step process between academic programs and the Graduate School. Applicants must meet the minimum requirements (https://grad.wisc.edu/apply/requirements/) of the Graduate School as well as the program(s). Once you have researched the graduate program(s) you are interested in, apply online (https://grad.wisc.edu/apply/).
Fellowships, traineeships, and financial aid. Resources to help you afford graduate study might include assistantships, fellowships, traineeships, and financial aid. Further funding information (https://grad.wisc.edu/funding/) is available from the Graduate School.

Mode of Instruction Definitions

Accelerated: Accelerated programs are offered at a fast pace that condenses the time to completion. Students typically take enough credits aimed at completing the program in a year or two.

Evening/Weekend: Courses meet on the UW–Madison campus only in evenings and/or on weekends to accommodate typical business schedules. Students have the advantages of face-to-face courses with the flexibility to keep work and other life commitments.

Face-to-Face: Courses typically meet during weekdays on the UW–Madison Campus.

Hybrid: These programs combine face-to-face and online learning formats. Contact the program for more specific information.

Online: These programs are offered 100% online. Some programs may require an on-campus orientation or residency experience, but the courses will be facilitated in an online format.

GRADUATE SCHOOL RESOURCES

Resources to help you afford graduate study might include assistantships, fellowships, traineeships, and financial aid. Further funding information (https://grad.wisc.edu/funding/) is available from the Graduate School.

Please also note that accelerated students are not able to apply to the dual or double degree programs with La Follette School because of rigorous schedule of the coursework.

Every applicant whose first language is not English and whose complete four-year undergraduate instruction was not in English, must provide an English proficiency test score and meet the Graduate School minimum requirements (https://grad.wisc.edu/apply/requirements/#english-proficiency).

Every applicant whose native language is not English or whose undergraduate instruction was not in English must provide an English proficiency test score and meet the Graduate School minimum requirements (https://grad.wisc.edu/apply/requirements/#english-proficiency).

The La Follette School of Public Affairs only admits for the fall semester. The priority deadline for admission is listed above in the table. Applications are accepted after this date on a rolling admission basis, but there is no guarantee that space in the incoming class will be available.

Please also note that accelerated students are not able to apply to the dual or double degree programs with La Follette School because of rigorous schedule of the coursework.

Program resources

La Follette School fellowships and assistantships are offered on a merit basis to select public affairs and international public affairs applicants who submit all application materials by January 1. Need is considered for some scholarships, so submitting a FAFSA by December 1 is also recommended.

Please refer to the Funding and Financial Information (https://www.lafollette.wisc.edu/admissions/funding-financial-information/) section of the La Follette School website for more information (www.lafollette.wisc.edu).
Minimum Graduate Coursework: 21 credits must be completed in graduate-level coursework. Details can be found in the Graduate School’s Minimum Graduate Coursework (50%) policy (https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1244/).

Overall GPA Requirement: 3.00 GPA required.

Other Grade Requirements: Students must earn a BC or above in all core curriculum electives. A grade of C is the minimum grade permitted in elective courses that count toward a La Follette School degree.

Assessments and Examinations: n/a

Language Requirements: No language requirement.

REQUIRED COURSES

Students must complete 42 credits, including six core courses, a one-credit professional development seminar, plus eight elective courses. An internship can count for up to three elective credits. The program generally takes two years.

Regional Focus Fields

Regional focus fields develop broad expertise in a geographic region by clustering courses, including language courses, across several disciplines, typically emphasizing courses in the social sciences. In building regional focus fields, MIPA students take advantage of the university’s strong area studies centers, which include:

- African Studies (http://africa.wisc.edu)
- East Asian Studies (http://eastasia.wisc.edu/)
- European Studies (http://uw-madison-ces.org/)
- Latin American, Caribbean, and Iberian Studies (http://iacis.wisc.edu/)
- Middle East Studies (https://mideast.wisc.edu/)
- Russian, East European, and Central Asian Studies (http://creeca.wisc.edu/)
- South Asian Studies (http://southasia.wisc.edu/)
- Southeast Asian Studies (http://seasia.wisc.edu/)

1. Regional focus fields require students to take an additional course beyond the core requirements in a specific geographic region.
This program follows the University Special student. Coursework earned five or more years prior to admission to a master's degree is not allowed to satisfy requirements. This work does not appear on UW–Madison transcript nor count toward graduate career GPA.

With program approval, students are allowed to count no more than 9 UW–Madison Undergraduate

Students in the accelerated MIPA program may transfer up to 18 credits from their undergraduate career at UW–Madison toward the accelerated MIPA 42 degree credit total.

With program approval, students are allowed to count no more than 9 credits of coursework numbered 300 or above taken as a UW–Madison University Special student. Coursework earned five or more years prior to admission to a master’s degree is not allowed to satisfy requirements.

This program follows the Graduate School’s Probation policy (https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1217/).

Every graduate student will have one faculty advisor in addition to the Admissions and Advising Coordinator to support their academic progress.

Two-Year MIPA: Credit load by term varies. Students typically take 10 credits in their first semester in the program, increasing to 12 credits for the next two semesters so that they can plan a lighter load of 9 credits when in their final spring semester due to demands from their workshop course. Students need advisor approval to take 15 credits.

MIPA accelerated track: 12 credits

This program follows the Graduate School’s Time Limits policy (https://policy.wisc.edu/library/UW-1221/).

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

GRADUATE SCHOOL RESOURCES

Take advantage of the Graduate School’s professional development resources (https://grad.wisc.edu/pd/) to build skills, thrive academically, and launch your career.

PROGRAM RESOURCES

INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC AFFAIRS CAREERS

Career development is an integral part of the La Follette School experience, and data show extremely high percentages of employment three to six months post-graduation. The La Follette School offers:

- Visits with local employers, as well as trips focused on local, regional, and federal careers
- Networking opportunities
- Career development seminars with public affairs professionals
- Connections with alumni mentors

The career services coordinator works with students one-on-one to develop essential skills, such as interviewing, writing strong cover letters and resumes, and researching internships and permanent employment. During the first semester course Professional Development Workshop (https://www.lafollette.wisc.edu/degree-programs/courses/pa-800-professional-development-workshop/), students also create an individual plan and portfolio that help them proactively move toward their academic and career goals.

La Follette School alumni work in all levels of government, nonprofit organizations, and the private sector. Popular positions include policy analyst, consultant, executive director, research analyst, project manager, and government liaison. MIPA alumni have held positions with these agencies, organizations, and businesses:

- American Red Cross
- Aspen Institute
- CARE in Afghanistan
- Congressional-Executive Commission on China
- Deloitte
- Governments of Chile, Japan, and Korea
- Peace Corps
- United Nations Development Programme
- U.S. Agency for International Development
- U.S. Central Intelligence Agency
- U.S. Department of Homeland Security
- U.S. Department of State

Please refer to the Career Development (https://www.lafollette.wisc.edu/career-development/) section of the La Follette School website for more information (www.lafollette.wisc.edu).

LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. (Knowledge) Students will demonstrate understanding of major current and past policy debates, research findings, and analytical methodologies in each of the following core areas: microeconomic policy analysis, macroeconomic policy analysis, quantitative tools for policy analysis, policy analysis, and international governance.
2. (Knowledge) Students will demonstrate critical thinking skills. They will retrieve and examine the policy literature and evaluate evidence for and against hypotheses, identify knowledge gaps, strengths and weaknesses in existing literature, synthesize knowledge, and develop conclusions.
3. (Applied research skills) Students will read, comprehend, and effectively summarize policy research and policy-relevant academic research.
4. (Applied research skills) Students will effectively summarize data for a general (nonacademic) or policy audience.
5. (Applied research skills) Students will demonstrate competency in methods of inferential statistics including those associated with multivariate regression models.
6. (Professional and ethical conduct) Students will identify and appropriately respond to scenarios involving the ethical and professional responsibilities of public administration.
7. (Professional and ethical conduct) Students will demonstrate the ability to maintain human subjects protections when designing studies, collecting data and reporting results.
8. (Professional and ethical conduct) Students will know and adhere to high levels of professional conduct, ethical decision-making and legal and regulatory compliance.
9. (Professional and ethical conduct) Students will demonstrate the ability to maintain fidelity to objective social science-based research methods.
10. (Communication) Students will communicate in clear written language: a real-world policy problem, relevant scholarly studies and practical applications, a policy-analytic method to investigate the problem, and client-oriented advice to mitigate the problem.
11. (Communication) Students will communicate substance of point 1 highly concisely and in language understandable to a non-specialist.
12. (Communication) Students will communicate substance of point 2 orally.
13. (Professional skills and career preparation) Students will develop effective job-seeking tools and utilize job-seeking techniques.
14. (Professional skills and career preparation) Students will complete high quality group projects, including demonstration of effective project management and teamwork.
