ENTERING THE SCHOOL

APPLYING TO UW-MADISON

All prospective UW–Madison students must apply through the central campus Office of Admissions and Recruitment (<https://www.admissions.wisc.edu/>).

Students who indicate an interest in a School of Education major on their UW–Madison application will be admitted to the School of Education program or pre-program of choice at the point of admission to the university. Considering more than one School of Education major? It's also possible to declare "undecided in the School of Education" when completing the application.

In addition, students may indicate their interest in a School of Education major when registering for the Student Orientation, Advising, and Registration (SOAR) program.

CURRENT UW-MADISON STUDENTS

Students interested in pursuing a School of Education major should consult the program's declaration criteria, which vary by program area. Select the major of interest here (p.), and then look for the How to Get in tab.

RE-ENTRY STUDENTS

Students previously enrolled at UW–Madison who have not attended for a semester or more must complete a reentry application, as outlined by the UW–Madison Office of Admissions and Recruitment (<http://www.admissions.wisc.edu>). In general, students enrolled in a School of Education program before their absence from UW–Madison will be readmitted to that program, provided they were in good academic standing when they left (i.e., not on probation, strict probation, or dropped by the university). Note: Students seeking readmission to the professional part of their program should be aware of potential qualifications related to their return. See Re-Entry to Campus After an Absence (p.) for details.

Reentry applicants who were dropped by the university are asked to submit supplemental application materials. Instructions for the supplemental application are sent after the student has submitted the online reentry application. If an applicant is not in good academic standing the reentry application will be referred to the Associate Dean for Student Services in the School.

Students previously enrolled in another UW–Madison school or college will not be readmitted directly into a new, School of Education program. They must apply for reentry to the university with another school or college – usually the school or college in which they were previously enrolled. Once readmitted to the university, students may apply to the School of Education program by following the declaration process for that program. Select the major of interest here (p.), and then look for the How to Get in tab.

All prospective School of Education students are strongly encouraged to meet with an advisor in the School of Education Student Services office in advance of their declaration. Consultations are available in person, virtually, or via telephone. To schedule an appointment, email soeacademicervices@education.wisc.edu or call 608-262-1651. Current students can also schedule an appointment online through the Starfish app (<https://advising.wisc.edu/facstaff/starfish/starfish-student-resources/>) in MyUW.
