ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Transfer students may take longer to complete their degree than students entering the program as freshmen, as they too must complete the Courses required to get in, which contain specialized courses that must be taken sequentially.

There are typically 32 available spots each application cycle. This is an industry standard to ensure appropriate student to faculty ratio.

Upon acceptance into the major students must purchase a laptop computer based on minimum hardware specification and software licenses determined by the department and updated regularly. Students also have the option, but are not required, to purchase a laptop computer before acceptance into the program.

PROSPECTIVE UW–MADISON STUDENTS

All prospective UW–Madison students must apply through the central Office of Admissions and Recruitment (https://www.admissions.wisc.edu/).

Freshmen should declare their intention to pursue Interior Architecture when they apply for admission to UW–Madison. In addition, students may indicate interest in Interior Architecture when registering for Student Orientation, Advising, and Registration (SOAR).
