To declare the Certificate in Health Policy through the La Follette School of Public Affairs, students must:

- Hold UW-Madison sophomore standing or above, and be in good academic standing, according to the rules of your school or college
- Have completed at least one class that meets Certificate in Health Policy Program requirements, or be enrolled in at least one class in the current or upcoming semester that meets Certificate in Health Policy Program requirements

The La Follette School accepts applications for the Certificate in Health Policy during a specific month each year (https://lafollette.wisc.edu/admissions/undergraduate-certificate/). To apply for the Certificate:

- Review Certificate requirements, including the application deadline, so that you are familiar with the program and when to apply
- Write a statement of interest explaining how you envision applying health policy to the context of your major program and in your career
- Submit your application through the application portal, found on this page (https://lafollette.wisc.edu/admissions/undergraduate-certificate/) on the La Follette School’s web site
- Reach out to the La Follette School Undergraduate Advisor (https://lafollette.wisc.edu/admissions/undergraduate-certificate/) if you have questions
